Find and Replace

If you realize you spelled a word wrong throughout a whole document, instead of retyping the word a bunch of times, you can use find and replace.

Some states are not worth visiting. Indianna is one such state. Sara's hometown is in Indianna, and all they have there are cows and corn.

Now, this paragraph, then Reparge top

There are 3 types of screen views you can choose from:

- 1.) Normal Layout
- 2.) Web Layout
- 3.) Print Layout
- 4.) Reading Layout
- 5.) Outline Layout

It is up to you which one to pick. You might want to play around with all of them and see which you like better. How To Change The Layout: -Go to View on the menu bar

Commenting/Highlighting

To create and comment box:

~Select the text, and the on consoliton in the menu bar. If ~ coutelies the opping area of the analyse the fight of the highlight

Depending upon the display view that you are in, the comments will show up differently on your screen

Research

Sometimes, it is helpful to be able to look up a word in the dictionary, thesaurus, or translate it to another language. Using the research tool, you can do all this...and holfe! to get to the research window.

Select a word, press the ALT button and then right click on the word with the mouse. This will bring up a window on the right hand side of the screen

You can use this to look up the word you clicked on in the thesaurus, dictionary and encyclopedia

Now for the fun stuff!

- •Your job now is to write something about yourself in Word without using your name.
- Format it using font, colors, Word art and images
- On at least one word, highlight it, and look up the definition using the research tool. Put the definition you find in a comment bubble.
- We will then present your piece to the class and see if they can guess who it is.
